

Summer Field Trip Notice

Saturday and Sunday
July 25 and 26th, 2015
Isle au Haut, Maine

Bob Gerber and Marshall Chapman have planned a spectacular field trip on Isle au Haut for July 25 and 26th, 2015. Bob will give a tour of surficial geology on the first day and Marshall will show some very interesting bedrock geology on Sunday. Marshall wrote his PhD dissertation on the bedrock geology. Bob is a summer resident has spent a good deal of time studying the geology of the island. The scenery is beautiful and if the weather is good, this will be a very enjoyable trip. Take a look at the 2015 GSM Field Trip info on the GSM website. Some people will be staying on the island and some on the mainland making the traditional social gathering on Saturday night difficult. We will have a social hour on the island before the boat leaves for Stonington after the Saturday trip. There will also be a cookout at the Old Quarry Campground for people staying on the mainland Saturday night.

The logistics of getting to the island and finding a place to stay may be difficult. There are not very many places to stay on the island as you will note when you read the field trip info document. Most of the people who attend will end up staying on the mainland. Summer prices are expensive so GSM will pay for the water taxi transport from Stonington to the island for people attending for both days. We will also subsidize the cost of camping at the Old Quarry Campground in Stonington where we have reserved a group camping site. If you are interested in attending you must let us know in advance. See the enclosed registration form for details. You must register by May 31, 2015 in order to attend. This is a firm deadline because we must make arrangements in advance with the campground owner, water taxi owners and owners of cars on the island to transport members to the field trip sites. Please let me know if you will be staying at the campgrounds for one night or two.
